

THIS PART IS FOR WHEN-WATT-NOW-HOW-PART 1

WW: No watt.

Charlotte: Pardon.

WW: (Shouts) Watt!

Charlotte: (Shouts) I said pardon?

WW: (Shouts louder) Watt!

Enter Prof. Watt.

WW: Ah Professor Watt there you are.

Charlotte: Oh I see.

GJ: He's What?

WW: It's not important. (To audience) Believe me it gets even more complicated.

Watt: Sorry I'm late I was just putting the finishing touches to our latest range of genuine Belgian chocolates.

Brian: How can they be genuine Belgian chocolates if they aren't made in Belgium?

WW: So what, haven't you ever eaten a Mars bar?

Watt: I also have the first prototypes of our special triple flavour gum.

Mrs B: Triple flavour?

Watt: Yes as you chew it you get three different flavours, especially designed to complement each other.

Lavender: Like what?

Watt: (holds up three sticks of gum) Well, this stick is scones, strawberries and cream, this is fish chips and mushy peas and this one is sausages, jam and Marmite.

Xavier: (Looks up from game) Sausages? Jam? And Marmite?

WW: Yes it's part of our Heston Blumenthal range.

Watt: (Producing a bigger stick of gum) And this is our latest and most adventurous product yet.

Lavender: What's so special about it?
